Mac Medic Pro Opens in Murfreesboro

Provides Out-of-Warranty Service and Repair for all Apple Products

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. – Got a miserable Mac or injured iPod? Mac Medic PRO is here to help. The company, run by Patrick Clark, provides out-of-warranty service and repair for the entire line of Apple products including PowerBook G4s, iBooks, MacBooks, MacBook Pros, iMacs, PowerMacs, Mac Pros, iPods and iPhones at reasonable prices.

“I love the Apple product line and technology in general,” said Clark. “I try to provide service and help to everyone as though their Macs and iPhones belonged to me. I refuse to tell anyone to just buy a new one unless it truly is the most logical move.”

The Mac Medic PRO web site (www.macmedicpro.com) features a comprehensive menu of services that allows prospective customers to click on the type of Mac, iPod or iPhone they own to see a list of common problems and the costs associated with the repair or upgrade.

For new Mac users or even those who’ve had a Mac for a while, the site offers a How To Video section with step-by-step instructions for everything from customizing the date and time in the Menubar to using the Finder Sidebar to streamline tasks.

Mac Medic PRO, formerly located in Franklin, Tenn., is now open for business in Murfreesboro at 2604 Merchants Walk. For more information, visit www.macmedicpro.com.

BACKGROUND

Patrick Clark was first introduced to the world of Apple in early 1996 when he took a job, fresh out of ITT Tech, with a large Nashville concert lighting company. His assignment was to build their Electronics Repair Department from scratch and to repair and maintain a fleet of about 20 Macs. Clark, a loyal Mac user, has been working on Macs ever since.
