MSPX IS NOW VSKO

Offering small business flexibility coupled with big business savvy

VIENNA, Va. – MSPX, a full-service IT provider, is now VSKO. The company, an SBA 8(a) certified organization, will continue to offer the same great products as well as additional consulting services under the new brand name.

VSKO remains deeply committed to building lasting, mutually beneficial relationships with its clients in order to deliver long-term, sustainable solutions.

“We pride ourselves on helping our clients successfully meet their organization-wide strategic and technology challenges through business process consulting,” said Amir Javed, VSKO Chief Executive Officer. “Our goal is to become the preferred small business partner for our clients on a global scale. We may be small, but we can still help with the heavy lifting.”

Javed, VSKO’s CEO, is an accomplished strategist and insightful problem-solver who also is skilled at prioritizing needs and orchestrating solutions for clients. He is a dynamic leader and an effective communicator and plans to use his proven track record in business development and IT management to benefit MSPX clients under the new VSKO brand.

Current clients as well as new ones can be confident that the company will continue its strong history of delivering quality technology and business consulting to leading commercial and public sector clients worldwide.

The VSKO portfolio spans from strategic consulting and planning to IT architecture and design through integration and optimization.

VSKO’S new services and solutions offerings encompass four strategic areas: consulting and program management; security solutions; IT service management consulting and design; and enterprise employee collaboration solutions.
